146,670 hits. And counting.

This year, the 2,106 baseball games played in the major leagues will yield tens of thousands of hits, walks, strikeouts, stolen bases, double plays and runs.

They will produce a staggering mountain of statistics that'll be chewed up and pored over by sportswriters, fans and teams alike. Over and over again, statistics will fuel not only official records and standings, but also good-natured arguments and the booming hobby of fantasy leagues.

Data covering everything from batting averages, stolen bases, and won-lost percentages to more obscure considerations like whether a team plays better on grass or artificial turf, or at night instead of daytime.

Ever since the first ball was thrown, measurements have been made on just about every aspect of the game, not just to establish current team and player rankings and correlate past performance with future success, but to enrich the lore and preserve the legends of our national pastime.

Needless to say, accuracy and speed in juggling these figures are paramount. What better endeavor to utilize the power of the computer?

So, five years ago, Major League Baseball and IBM embarked on a joint effort to create what is now known as the MLB-IBM Baseball Information System (BIS).

Now, from the very first pitch of opening day to the last play of the World Series, the results of every player who steps to the plate are recorded and analyzed faster than a Nolan Ryan fastball. (In fact, as of last season, we've logged 146,670 hits.)

Whether he struck out or singled. Whether there's a walk or a ground-rule double. Bases stolen or runs batted in. It's all entered by a representative from the home team working on an IBM Personal System/2® computer in the press box.

After the game, a complete report is printed out containing long and short box scores and complete year-to-date statistics as well as a play-by-play narrative of the game (by the time the reporters return from postgame interviews and in plenty of time to meet newspaper deadlines). Reporters have hailed the BIS an absolute gift. It saves them endless calculations. And, with the accompanying narrative report of each game, it helps jog the memory in case anything was left out of their notes.

The postgame information is then sent electronically to a central host computer at MLB headquarters in New York. There, the larger computer, an IBM AS/400®, compiles the statistics, along with the data and statistics of every other game played that day.

Until the MLB-IBM System, many types of statistical reports were only available once a week or monthly, or not at all. Now, by 9 o'clock the next morning, the host computer makes available reports covering more than 29 categories (and growing) for all 26 clubs.

In addition to reports for all teams, individual team intelligence reports provide detailed performance data in many areas such as how pitchers perform in late innings or a hitter's ability to advance runners in certain situations or his batting effectiveness against righties or lefties. Today, this information is a vital element of managerial strategy, coaching help and even front office moves.

In total, the massive effort produces over 300 daily reports during the season and an additional 360 postseason reports covering 48 more categories.

It also provides online data for the press at the World Series and All Star games, and because it's instantaneous, BIS ensures reporters get up-to-date stats in the event of last-minute changes.

Finally, the system provides accurate statistics for MLB publications like the official League Red and Green books.

In a very short time, the MLB-IBM system has had a very profound effect on how our nation's favorite game is played and enjoyed.

And, while the importance of many contributions made to baseball over the years can never accurately be measured, happily, now there is something that can.

Marge Schott
President & Chief Executive Officer

Marge Schott is the First Lady of Cincinnati baseball, serving as the President and Chief Executive Officer of professional baseball's oldest franchise.

Providing Reds' fans with quality entertainment has been the top priority during Mrs. Schott's tenure as owner of the Reds. A native and sixth generation resident of Cincinnati, Mrs. Schott was a Limited Partner in the team since 1981 and then became the General Partner of the ownership group on Dec. 21, 1984. She became President and Chief Executive Officer on July 8, 1985.

Mrs. Schott has helped bring back the excitement of Reds baseball to Riverfront Stadium, while providing the leadership and financial support needed to build a winning team and keeping ticket prices among the lowest in the major leagues. The Reds have drawn more than 14 million fans to Riverfront in her seven years as the club's principal owner. Season ticket sales have reached new team highs.

Mrs. Schott saw her dreams come true in 1990 when her Reds went "wire-to-wire" to win the National League Western Division championship and then went on to capture the NL pennant, followed by a stunning World Series sweep over Oakland.

Mrs. Schott led the Reds' World Series victory parade and celebration at Fountain Square in downtown Cincinnati and she headed the team's contingent honored by President Bush at the White House following the Series.

In addition to the enjoyment of watching the Reds on the field, Mrs. Schott has had some thrills away from the Stadium as well. In 1989, she had lunch at the White House with President Bush; was a special honoree at a Women in Business luncheon during the President's Inauguration Week festivities; and has made two baseball goodwill visits to Japan, representing Cincinnati and the Reds.

Among other highlights were a 1988 visit to the Vatican, where she presented the Pope with a Reds' jacket; a feature interview on the "60 Minutes" TV show; and a salute by Savvy Magazine as the operator of one of the 40 largest businesses in the country to be headed by a woman.

In Dec., 1986, she was among 85 women entrepreneurs from all over the country who were honored by President Reagan at a White House reception. Earlier that year, she was named Woman of the Year by the American Legion Auxiliary at its national convention. Mrs. Schott was singled out for having made significant contributions to community life.

Mrs. Schott, Manager Lou Piniella and Ohio Governor George Voinovich prepare to release the "Pigeons of Peace" on Opening Day 1991.

She was inducted into the Communiplex Women's Hall of Fame for women in sports in 1987 and received an honorary degree from Maryville College in St. Louis in 1991.

Mrs. Schott was inducted into the Ohio Women's Hall of Fame in Nov., 1985, for her achievements in business, industry and athletics. A year earlier, she was honored as one of the 1984 Women of the Year in Cincinnati. She is well-known for her role as hostess for the Reds' Rally, a major fund-raiser for the Children's Heart Association at Children's Hospital, and for her work with the famed Cincinnati Zoo. She is the Honorary Chairman of the Zoo's Education Program.

Mrs. Schott became a businesswoman by necessity when her husband, Charles, died in 1968, leaving her in charge of a business empire that included such divergent holdings as an auto agency, cement, truck and brick companies and real estate. She has since added holdings of her own.

It took her 2½ years to convince General Motors to make her the first U.S. woman ever to be awarded a major metropolitan area G.M. dealership. Later, she became the first woman ever named to the board of trustees of the Cincinnati Chamber of Commerce.

Mrs. Schott is the only woman currently involved in primary ownership of a major league baseball team.

Bob Quinn
Vice President & General Manager

Quinn is in his third year with the Reds. He joined the club on Oct. 13, 1989, and was a key architect in building the 1990 World Champion Reds. His efforts were rewarded with his selection as Major League Executive of the Year by The Sporting News — selected in a poll of his peers. Quinn engineered trades that brought reliever Randy Myers, infielders Hal Morris and Bill Doran, and outfielders Billy Hatcher and Glenn Braggs to the Reds.

Bob's extensive baseball background began with two years (1959-60) as General Manager of the Eau Claire team. After several years in private business, he returned to baseball as GM of the Reading Phillies (1967-68) & the Omaha Royals (1969-70). He was named Class AA Executive of the Year by The Sporting News in '67 and American Association Executive of the Year in '69. Quinn joined the Milwaukee Brewers as Director of Minor League Operations in 1971. He spent 12 years with Cleveland, beginning in 1973 as Director of Scouting & Minor League Operations. He was promoted to Vice President/Player Development & Scouting in 1980. Quinn joined the New York Yankees in Sept., 1986, as Assistant VP and was promoted to VP/Baseball Administration the following month. He was named VP & GM in June, 1988.

Quinn's grandfather, J.A. Quinn, was GM of four major league teams. His father, John, was GM of the Boston and Milwaukee Braves for 23 years and the Philadelphia Phillies for 13 years. A graduate of Marquette University, Quinn was born in Boston. He and his wife, Kathryn, have two sons, Mike and Bob.

MANAGING to Win

BY ROB PARKER, The Cincinnati Enquirer

It wasn't supposed to be this way.

Lou Piniella had it all figured out as his solid 16-year baseball career was winding down with the New York Yankees. In his picture of life after baseball, Piniella saw himself as an entrepreneur or an executive on Wall Street.

"One of the reasons I got into the business world — restaurants and marketing — was because I was looking past my playing days and looking for something to fall back on," said Piniella.

The last thing Piniella thought about was managing a baseball team. In fact, it never crossed his mind until Yankee principal owner George Steinbrenner brought it up in a telephone conversation in 1984.

Steinbrenner, impressed with the job Piniella did as a player/batting coach that season, convinced Piniella that he had a bright future as a manager in baseball and offered him the hitting coach's job to start.

"That winter George called me — our club led the league in hitting — we had brought up a lot of young kids and made some pretty good strides," Piniella said. "We had guys like (Don) Mattingly and Pags (Mike Pagliarulo), just to name a couple.

"He said, 'I know what this job pays. I'll pay you a lot more than the normal, but I'd like for you to stay in with us and help with our hitters and learn about the game.' He said that in the not too distant future, 'if you apply yourself, I'll give you an opportunity to manage my team.' And that's the first time I ever even thought about managing."

While he was extremely flattered by Steinbrenner's offer, he didn't jump for joy. Piniella still thought it would be many years before he'd actually take over the Yankees. "I wasn't shocked," he said. "But I thought it would be in the distant future so I really didn't react one way or the other."

Then things started to materialize very fast. Yogi Berra got fired early in the 1985 season and Billy Martin was brought in. Martin had two jobs when he took over. He was to get the Yankees winning again and teach Piniella how to manage.

"I remember when Martin took over in early May," said Piniella. "He wanted me to sit with him in the dugout and to ask questions when they were appropriate."

Even so, Piniella still figured Martin was going to be at the helm for four or five years. "I thought I had plenty of time."

Martin was fired after the '86 season and Piniella, at age 43, was named Yankee manager for the 1987 season. "A year and a half later," he said, "I'm managing a major league team.

"I was very fortunate. If they had asked me to go down and manage in the minor leagues I probably would have been in the business world instead of in baseball."

Piniella knew he was lucky. Most managers have to put in countless years in the minors before, if ever, they get a chance in the bigs. "It's unfortunate, but there aren't too many people who don't have to go manage in the minor leagues in order to manage at the major league level."

Piniella went 90-72 and finished in second place in the American League East in his first season, but it was a rocky season, to say the least.

"It was very unlike what I thought the job was going to be like," said Piniella, who won 89 games in his second season. "I thought the managing job when I first took it was that you went down to spring training, got the players in shape, evaluated, wrote out a lineup and let them play.

"Boy, was I surprised! I'll tell you there's a lot more work and a lot more planning and organization. It's very time consuming. The game is on your mind a lot. You have to learn these things."

Despite his quick success, Piniella resigned after the 1987 season to take over the general manager post. "I went up to the front office and I was getting a total education in baseball," he said. "I played, I coached, I managed. Now, I was a GM.

"It was a total education and made me look at the game of baseball from a different perspective. It was good. I liked it."

But dealing with Steinbrenner and Martin — both very demanding — took its toll on Piniella. "The only problem with the job was that I had George on one side and Martin on the other and I was always getting caught in the middle," said Piniella. "I got very tired. I resigned and went back to scouting the farm system in 1988."

Then something happened that pulled Piniella back into managing even though he was not quite ready to jump back in. Steinbrenner fired Martin and wanted Piniella back at the helm. Interestingly, Bob Quinn, then with the Yankees, first called Piniella about coming back. "I told Bob I had no interest," he said.

Then came a call from Steinbrenner. "He talked me into it," said Piniella, who took over June 23, 1988. "George called and he's very convincing.

"He told me, 'things are going to be different; I'll leave you alone. We're going to get along well this time. You make the decisions. You're the boss.' Yeah. I bit for it, though."

Despite accepting the job and a three-year contract extension, he had his doubts. "All the way back from Albany, I felt like stopping on the side of the highway, picking up the phone and saying that I changed my mind," he said. "I really did. I didn't, though. I got back home, talked to my wife (Anita) and went out to the ballpark. I managed that night and won against Cleveland. We won four of the first five."

Piniella's second honeymoon with Steinbrenner, though, wasn't great. The team finished 45-48 under Piniella. Steinbrenner was very unhappy and so was Piniella. "By the end of the year, he fired me again and brought in Dallas Green. Truthfully, by the end of that year, I wanted to be replaced. I really did. I knew it wasn't going to work. I knew it was just a matter of time so why wait until the middle of the following season. We might as well get it over with."

After working in various capacities in the Yankee organization, Piniella had no intention of getting back into managing. Then the Toronto Blue Jays came knocking.

"They offered me the job, but George wouldn't let me go," he said. "I wasn't mad. George was paying me well.

"I would have gone. The Toronto people thought I was leading them on. But I had signed a personal service contract (with Steinbrenner) so it wasn't up to me. It got me thinking again about going back on the field."

Mainly, Piniella wanted to win. He won two World Series as a player in 1977-78 with the Yankees. As a manager, he hadn't won anything except games. "I had managed two-and-a-half years and hadn't won. I just wanted to prove to myself that I could go down on the field and win."

In the winter of 1989, four ballclubs called Piniella. Cincinnati was one of them.

"Cincinnati was the job I was really interested in because of the good talent there. It's a great baseball town and, because it was in the National League, George would possibly let me get away. The other teams were American League teams," he said.

Once again, Quinn, now the GM with the Reds, called Piniella about a managing job. He flew in and talked with Reds' President and CEO Marge Schott. The pair hammered out a three-year contract, and Piniella took over the 1990 Reds.

After 22 years of baseball in the American League, Piniella broke into the National League with a bang. He guided the Reds to their first Western Division title since 1979, their first pennant since 1976 and a stunning World Series sweep over the Oakland A's.

"That's the most satisfying, most gratifying thing I've ever done in baseball," said Piniella, whose team was the first in NL history to stay in first place through all 162 games. "You enjoy it as a player, but you're only a small part of it.

"As a manager, you're more responsible for decisions, you're more in the thick of it, in the middle of it. Everybody relies on you to get this or that done. Or make the right decision here or there. It was a culmination of all the things that I've accomplished in baseball. You put in so many more hours and thought into this thing as a manager than you do as a player. It's so rewarding."

Other aspects of managing also appeal to Piniella. "I love the teaching part," he said. "Also the decision making during the course of a ballgame. Those are probably the two most rewarding. You really have to be on top of the game from the first inning on.

"Baseball is unlike any other sport. Sportswriters, fans, radio and TV people are all managing. And I understand that.

I really do. It's the game that gives everybody the chance to say what they would do if they were the manager. It's open to debate."

The worst part about managing for Piniella, by far, is losing—especially if his club is not playing well for a period of time, which was the case in 1991. The Reds finished a disappointing fifth with a 74-88 mark. "I carry it with me," he said.

The frustration caught up with Piniella, who is the fiery type. In fact, his dirt-kicking barrage on umpires during a game last season wound up getting him slapped with a lawsuit. He has learned from that incident.

"The problem I had with the umpires last year gave me a lot of food for thought," he admitted. "They're in a tough position. If they call it my way, the other manager comes out. If they call it his way, I come out.

"I'm toning it down some. I'm getting older and hopefully wiser. I'm going to tone it down."

In a short four-and-a-half years as a major league skipper, Piniella has learned a lot—mainly that managing isn't easy.

"Managing is not an easy job," he said. "You want to be a nice guy, but you really can't. That's the sad part about it.

"Nobody wants to be an ogre. But, unfortunately, somebody has to do that. If you're fair and honest with the players, tell them what you feel, don't lie to them and respect them, in return you get respect back.

"Sometimes I tell players things that they don't want to hear. I tell them the truth. I try to treat players the way I wanted to be treated when I was a player. I treat them like men. At the same time, somebody has to be the boss. And right now, it's me."

MAJOR LEAGUE BASEBALL®
ALL-STAR FAN BALLOTING

Who's going to be in the starting lineup for the 63rd annual All-Star Game at San Diego's Jack Murphy Stadium?

It's a question that can only be answered by baseball fans from coast to coast. How? By casting your vote in USA TODAY'S Major League Baseball All-Star Fan Balloting.

This season marks the sixth consecutive year in which USA TODAY invites you to come to the ballpark, get a ballot, and cast your vote for the starting lineups in both the National and American Leagues.

The upcoming 1992 All-Star game will be the second time the game will be played in San Diego. The last time was in 1978. Tommy Lasorda's National League team beat Billy Martin's American League team in a decisive 7-3 win, extending the National League's winning streak to seven games. Though the National League has undeniably dominated the Mid-Summer Classic throughout the '60s, '70s, and early '80s, it's the American League that has been flexing its muscles over the last several years. Including last year's 4-2 win in Toronto, the American League has taken five of the last six All-Star Games.

All-Star ballots are available at Riverfront Stadium and all major and minor league ballparks from May 11th through July 5th. If you can't get to the ballpark, just fill out and mail in the ballot printed every week in USA TODAY through July 1st. USA TODAY's more than 6-million daily readers will join the millions of fans at the ballparks in selecting this year's starting lineups.

Plus, USA TODAY has teamed up with All-Star partner United Airlines to present the "Travel Like An All-Star" Sweepstakes. Every time you cast your ballot, you can also enter to win! The Grand Prize is a year of free travel for two on United and $25,000 in cash — plus trips for two to the 1992 All-Star Game. See USA TODAY for details.

"USA TODAY will make the ballot available this year to more fans in more places than ever before," said USA TODAY President and Publisher Tom Curley. "This means a larger number of fans, no matter where they live, will have a greater opportunity to say who will play in the All-Star Game."

Last season, a total of 7,036,326 ballots were cast. Ryne Sandberg of the Chicago Cubs and Ken Griffey, Jr. of the Seattle Mariners each received the USA TODAY "Top Vote-Getter Award" for leading their respective leagues in total votes. Sandberg received 2,526,818 votes, while Griffey received 2,248,440. USA TODAY will again award Top Vote-Getter trophies to the players who lead their league in total votes.

For the sixth consecutive year, USA TODAY will again make a donation for every ballot cast to the Baseball Assistance Team (BAT). BAT is an organization dedicated exclusively to assisting retired players and needy members of the "baseball family." Over the past five years, USA TODAY has donated nearly $270,000 to BAT, and is looking to add to that this season.

The All-Star Ballot features a player from each team at every position. In all, the ballot includes 208 players, which means you'll have the chance to vote on a wide range of players — from perennial All-Stars to players appearing on the ballot for the first time. You can also "write in" the name of any player whose name does not appear on the ballot.

Last season, Tom Browning, Rob Dibble, Barry Larkin, Paul O'Neill and Chris Sabo represented the Cincinnati Reds on the National League All-Star team.

Remember to vote whenever you're at the ballpark, or on Tuesdays or Wednesdays only in USA TODAY.

Nicknames

Ever wonder how some of Major League Baseball teams got their nicknames? Listed below is a brief statement on how some of the clubs chose their nickname.

CHICAGO-Officially adopted in 1907, the Cubs were previously known as the "White Stockings," "Colts" & "Orphans," before a newspaper writer in search of a short nickname used the name first in 1900.

HOUSTON-Originally called the Colt 45's mainly because the team played at Colt Stadium. Astros became the nickname when the team began playing its home games in the Astrodome.

LOS ANGELES-The original Brooklyn team went through numerous nickname changes until the year 1911, when the term Dodgers was coined due to the club's fans who "dodged" the new electric trolleys on Washington Avenue on their way to the ballpark.

MONTREAL-Named after the famous World Exposition of 1967, the Expos were the inaugural team for Canada in the major leagues.

PHILADELPHIA-Alfred Reach purchased the Worchester, Massachusetts franchise in 1883, moved it to the Quaker City, and adopted Phillies as the official team name.

PITTSBURGH-Originally known as the Pittsburgh Alleghenies, the team became the Pirates in the late 1800s when Pittsburgh allegedly "pirated" second baseman Louis Bierbauer from the Philadelphia club after the disbanding of the Players League in 1890.

SAN DIEGO-The nickname Padres derives from the Franciscan padres who pioneered the San Diego area well over 400 years ago.

SAN FRANCISCO-The nickname of Giants came into being in 1886. New York manager Jim Mutrie was quite animated in his postgame victory comments and was known to shout, "My big fellows! My Giants! We are the people."

CALIFORNIA-When the team entered the American League in 1961, its games were played in Los Angeles and the nickname Angels was acquired from the minor league team it replaced in the "City of Angels."

CHICAGO-The team was first called the "White Stockings", but the National League objected because its team in the Windy City had once used that nickname, so owner Charles Comiskey shortened it to White Sox and thumbed his nose at the rival league.

MILWAUKEE-The nickname Brewers, picked up from a minor league team of earlier days, was first used to salute the beer-making capital of the country.

MINNESOTA-To avoid ill feeling in the spirited rivalry between St. Paul and Minneapolis, the club (located between the two cities) selected Twins to honor both.

NEW YORK-Originally, they were the "Hilltoppers" and the "Highlanders", but a newspaper headline writer in 1909 tried Yankees and further shortened it to "Yanks" at times.

SEATTLE-The Mariners were named for the fishing and boating industry in the Seattle area.

TEXAS-Located between Dallas and Fort Worth, the team's nickname, Rangers, was selected in a fan contest. It honors the legendary state police force of Texas.

Retired Uniform Numbers

The Reds have officially retired two uniform numbers — the No. 1 worn by the late Fred Hutchinson and the No. 5 worn by Johnny Bench.

Hutchinson managed the Reds from 1959-1964, winning the National League pennant in 1961. His No. 1 was retired after he died of cancer in 1964.

Bench's No. 5 was retired Aug. 11, 1984. Bench played more than 16 seasons for the Reds and retired following the 1983 season as the team's all-time leader in career home runs (389) and runs batted in (1,376). He won two NL Most Valuable Player Awards (1970 & 1972); World Series MVP (1976); NL Rookie of the Year (1968); and he holds the NL record for career home runs by a catcher (327). He was elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame in Cooperstown, NY, in 1989 in his first year of eligibility.

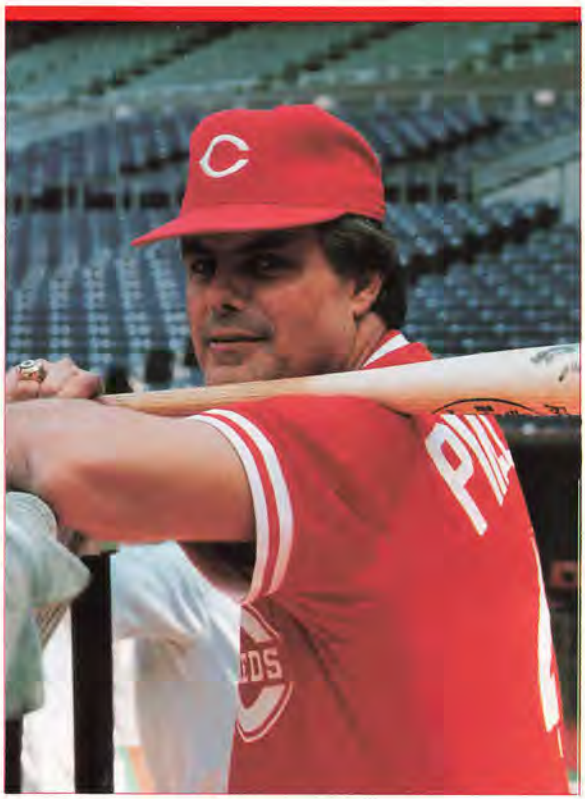
Lou Piniella, Manager 41

Louis Victor Piniella
Born: 8-28-43, Tampa, FL
Wife: Anita
Resides: Allendale, NJ
Children: Lou Jr., (23), Kristi (21), Derek (13)



Lou Piniella is in his third season as manager of the Reds after spending the first 22 years (1968-89) of his baseball career in the American League, first as a player and then as a coach, manager and front office executive. He made the transition to the National League in 1990 with sensational results. He guided the Reds to their first Western Division title since 1979; their first NL pennant since 1976; and then a stunning World Series sweep over Oakland. The Reds set a team record by winning their first 9 games and then stayed in first place the entire season to become the first NL team to go wire-to-wire in a 162-game season. When the Reds swept Oakland in the World Series, Piniella became the first manager whose team swept the Series in his first year with a club. His overall managerial record (Cincinnati & New York) is 389-352 (.525).

As a player, Lou hit over .300 seven times in his 18-year big league career, while compiling a .291 average. He hit .319 in 22 World Series games and .305 in 18 American League Championship Series games. He was American League Rookie of the Year in 1969 as an outfielder with the Kansas City Royals.

In November, 1991, Lou was part of a Reds' goodwill tour to Cincinnati's sister city of Gifu, Japan.

MAJOR LEAGUE BASEBALL

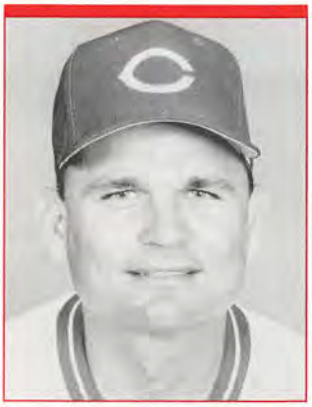
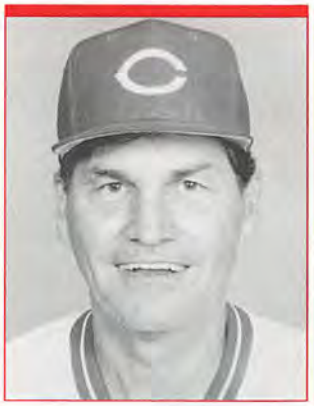
John McLaren

John was named bullpen coach for the Reds on Nov. 7, 1991, after serving as the Boston Red Sox' bullpen coach during the 1991 season and the Toronto Blue Jays' third base coach from 1986-90. After a seven year playing career, McLaren was coach for Toronto's Utica farm team in the New York-Penn League in 1977, then managed in the Blue Jays' minor league system for eight years. He guided Class A Kinston to the Carolina League first half title in 1981 and led Double-A Knoxville to the Southern League championships in 1984 (1st half) and 1985 (2nd half). John was named Co-Manager of the Year in the Southern League in 1985. He helped coach Canada's national team in 1977. John and his wife Ann live in Sugar Land, TX.



Jackie Moore

Moore was named dugout coach for the Reds on Nov. 8, 1989, after three seasons as third base coach for the Montreal Expos. Jackie has been a major league manager or coach since 1970 with Milwaukee (1970-72), Texas (1973-76, 1980), Toronto (1977-79), Oakland (1981-86) and Montreal (1987-89) before coming to Cincinnati. Jackie was first base coach with Oakland when he was promoted to Athletics' manager on May 24, 1984. He began his managerial career with Boston farm teams at Jamestown, NY, in 1968 and 1969. Jackie played 11 years as a catcher in professional baseball, including most of the 1965 season with Detroit. Jackie and his wife JoAnn live in Arlington, TX.



Tony Perez

Perez is in his sixth season as a Reds' coach. He was the first base coach in 1987, the hitting coach in 1988 and 1989, and now holds both jobs. Tony's 23-year big league playing career included 16 seasons with Cincinnati (1964-76, 1984-86); three with Montreal (1977-79); three with Boston (1980-82); and one with Philadelphia (1983). His 379 career homers tied Orlando Cepeda for the major league record among Latin-American players. A first baseman during most of his career, Tony ranks among the Reds' all-time Top Five in games, at-bats, hits, doubles, homers, extra base hits, total bases and RBI. Tony became eligible for the Hall of Fame in 1992 and received 215 of the 430 votes cast by the Baseball Writers Association of America (323 needed for election). Tony and his wife Pituka live in Santurce, Puerto Rico.

Sam Perlozzo

Sam was named third base coach of the Reds on Nov. 8, 1989. He also serves as the team's infield and base running coach. Before coming to Cincinnati, he spent the three previous seasons as third base coach for the New York Mets. Prior to that, he managed in the Mets' farm system for five seasons, where his teams won three championships and never had a losing record, compiling an overall mark of 364-263 (.581). Perlozzo was Carolina Manager of the Year in 1983, when his Lynchburg club won the regular season and playoff titles. He was selected Texas League Manager of the Year and was named Minor League Manager of the Year in 1984 by Baseball America after directing Jackson to regular season and playoff titles. Sam was an infielder in pro ball from 1973-81, playing in the majors with Minnesota in 1977 and San Diego in 1979.

Larry Rothschild

Larry was promoted to pitching coach on Oct. 28, 1991, after two years as the Reds' bullpen coach. He served as a roving pitching instructor in the Cincinnati farm system for the previous 4 seasons. Rothschild worked with young pitchers on the Reds' two Rookie and two Class A teams in 1986 and 1987 and expanded to all six farm teams in 1988 and 1989. Larry pitched professionally from 1975-85, including two stints in the big leagues with Detroit (1981-82). He spent the first six of those seasons in the Reds' farm system after signing as a free agent out of Florida State University. Detroit drafted Rothschild out of the Reds' organization in December, 1980. Larry and his wife Jane live in Great Neck, NY.

PITCHER

Rules of Interest

PLAYER LIMITS: 40 until opening day, when the number must be reduced to 25 until September 1, when it again becomes 40.

DETERMINING BATTING AVERAGE: Divide the number of at bats into the number of hits.

DETERMINING AN EARNED RUN AVERAGE: Multiply the number of earned runs by nine; take the number and divide it by the number of innings pitched.

DETERMINING SLUGGING PERCENTAGE: Divide the total bases of all safe hits by the total times at bat (at bats do not include walks, sacrifices, hit by pitcher, or times awarded first base because of interference or obstruction).

DETERMINING ON-BASE PERCENTAGE: Divide hits plus total walks plus hit-by-pitch by at bats plus total walks plus hit-by-pitch and sacrifice flies. (Times awarded first base on interference or obstruction are not figured into on-base percentage.)

DETERMINING PERCENTAGE OF GAMES WON AND LOST: Divide the number of games won by the total games won and lost.

CONSECUTIVE HITTING STREAKS: A consecutive hitting streak shall not be terminated if the plate appearance results in a base on balls, hit batsman, defensive interference or a sacrifice bunt. A sacrifice fly shall terminate the streak.

CONSECUTIVE-GAME HITTING STREAKS: A consecutive-game hitting streak shall not be terminated if all the player's plate appearances (one or more) result in a base on balls, hit batsman, defensive interference or a sacrifice bunt. The streak shall terminate if the player has a sacrifice fly and no hit.

CONSECUTIVE-GAME PLAYING STREAK: A consecutive-game playing streak shall be extended if the player plays one half-inning on defense, or if he completes a time at bat by reaching base or being put out. A pinch-running appearance only shall not extend the streak. If a player is ejected from a game by an umpire before he can comply with the requirements of this rule, his streak shall continue.

BATTING AND ERA CHAMPION QUALIFICATIONS: 502 or more plate appearances; 162 or more innings pitched.

ROOKIE QUALIFICATIONS: A player shall be considered a rookie unless, during a previous season or seasons, he has (A) exceeded 130 at bats or 50 innings pitched in the major leagues; or (B) accumulated more than 45 days on the active roster of a major league club or clubs during the period of the 25-player limit (excluding time in military service).

DETERMINING MAGIC NUMBER: To figure "Magic Number" in pennant race, compute the number of games yet to be played, add one, then subtract the number of games ahead in the lost column of the standings of the closest opponent.

QUALIFICATIONS FOR A SAVE: Pitcher is credited with a save when he meets all 3 of the following conditions: (1) he is the finishing pitcher in game won by his club; (2) he is not the winning pitcher; (3) he qualifies under one of the following conditions: (a) he enters the game with a lead of no more than three runs and pitches for at least one inning; (b) or he enters the game with the potential tying run either on base or at bat or on deck; (c) or he pitches effectively for at least three innings.

NIGHT GAME: A night game is any game with a scheduled starting time later than 5 p.m.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO SPEND THE NIGHT AT THE STADIUM TO GET A GOOD SEAT FOR THE GAME!

When the visiting team comes to play in Cincinnati, you can bet they don't spend the night in the locker room. • Check into The Terrace Hilton's special weekend rate of $75 per night, single or double occupancy, where you can enjoy a leisurely complimentary continental breakfast and avoid the traffic by walking the few short blocks to the heart of downtown. • For reservations at over 400 hotels, call your travel consultant, any Hilton Hotel, or Hilton Reservations Worldwide at 1-800-HILTONS.

Down on the Farm

Reds Honor Minor League Most Valuable Players

Every year, the Reds and Budweiser honor the Most Valuable Players from the Reds' six farm teams. The 1991 farm MVPs were Terry Lee, Nashville first baseman; Benny Colvard, Chattanooga outfielder; Steve Gibralter, Charleston (WV) outfielder; Trevor Hoffman, Cedar Rapids pitcher; Joe DeBerry, Billings first baseman; and Toby Rumfield, Princeton catcher.

Lee, 30, led Triple-A Nashville in hitting with a .304 average; in homers with 15; and RBI with 67. He finished 4th in the American Association batting race; tied for 5th in homers; and was selected as the designated hitter on the league's post-season All-Star team. The right-handed hitting Lee, who also played in 3 major league games for the Reds in 1991, signed with the Cincinnati organization as an undrafted free agent in July, 1982. This was his second farm team MVP selection. He was also named MVP at Double-A Vermont in 1985.

Colvard, 25, is also a two time MVP, having previously earned the honor in 1988 at Billings. A right-handed hitter, he led Double-A Chattanooga with 17 homers and 68 RBI, while hitting .281 with 23 doubles, 8 triples and 11 stolen bases. Colvard led the Southern League with 221 total bases; tied for 1st in triples; ranked 5th in HR; and 7th in batting. He was the Reds' No. 17 draft choice in June, 1988, out of Southeastern Oklahoma State University.

Gibralter, 18, led the Class A South Atlantic League in games played (140), at-bats (544) and doubles (36), while helping Charleston win both the first and second half Northern Division regular season titles. In only his second pro season, he hit .267 with 6 homers and a team-leading 71 RBI. He was named to the SAL post-season All-Star team. A right-handed hitter, Gibralter was the Reds' No. 6 draft pick in June, 1990, out of Duncanville High School in Duncanville, TX.

Hoffman, a 24-year-old right-hander, was an infielder in his first two years of pro ball (1989 & 1990), before making a very successful switch to pitcher this season. He worked exclusively out of the bullpen and was 1-1 with a 1.87 ERA and 12 saves in 27 appearances for Class A Cedar Rapids in the Midwest League. He struck out 52 batters in 33.2 innings. Hoffman was promoted to Chattanooga on August 1 and was 1-0 with a 1.93 ERA, 8 saves and 23 strikeouts in 14 innings over 14 relief outings for the Lookouts. He was Cincinnati's No. 11 draft choice in June, 1989, out of the University of Arizona.

DeBerry, 21, made his professional debut this year and led Billings (Short-A Pioneer League) with 10 home runs, 47 RBI and 13 doubles in 65 games, while batting .263. He tied for 2nd in the league in homers. The left-handed hitting DeBerry was the Reds' No. 3 draft choice out of Clemson University. He is the son of Air Force Academy head football coach Fisher DeBerry.

Rumfield, 19, was the Reds' No. 2 draft pick this year out of Belton High School in Belton, TX. A right-handed hitter, he broke into pro ball by hitting .274 in 59 games for Princeton in the Rookie Appalachian League. He led the team in hits (62), doubles (13) and RBI (30).

The Reds' farm system MVP awards have been given annually since 1977. The winners, from 1977 through 1991, include 30 players who have played in the major leagues.

20 Years Ago:

Different Approaches, Same Results?

BY BILL PETERSON, The Cincinnati Post

Twenty years ago, the Reds came back from the trade market with a speedy offense igniter proven in his mastery of artificial turf, a fleet center fielder with a strong arm, help for their pitching staff and some extras.

Sound familiar?

It's just about identical to the club's trade harvest from this past winter, when Reds General Manager Bob Quinn made four separate deals that stood to land five new players on their Opening Day roster.

The main difference in these two overhauls is the result of changes in the baseball business over two decades. While Quinn dealt with Cleveland, Los Angeles, San Diego and Montreal to alter the look of this year's club, back in 1972 General Manager Bob Howsam did it in one eight-player blockbuster with the Houston Astros.

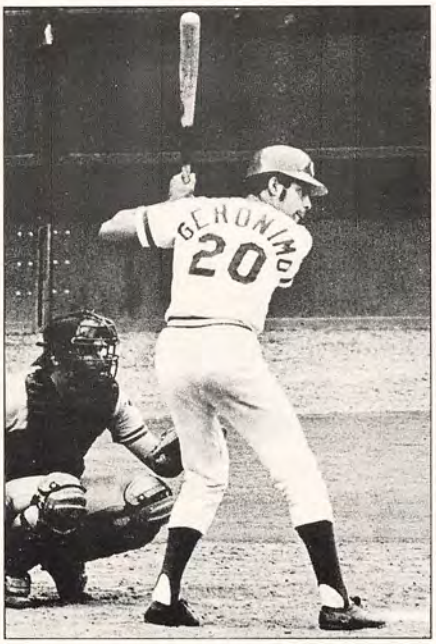
Howsam sent first baseman Lee May, second baseman Tommy Helms and utility man Jimmy Stewart to Houston for second baseman Joe Morgan, center fielder Cesar Geronimo, pitcher Jack Billingham, infielder Denis Menke and outfield prospect Ed Armbrister. Howsam knew he gave up valuable property, especially in May and Helms. But he also knew he needed to change the Reds' orientation after watching them for one and a half seasons on the Astro Turf at Riverfront Stadium.

"You had to fit your ball club to play in the new stadium," said Howsam. "We wanted to get more speed into the lineup. We gave up some very fine players. In fact, I expected Houston to win that year because we gave them everything I thought they needed. We were trying to improve our club for the long run."

It worked out much better than anyone expected. The Reds not only went to the World Series in 1972, but by the end of 1976 they had won four NL West titles, three National League crowns and two World Championships.

Though Geronimo, Billingham, Menke and Armbrister all made their contributions to the Reds, they were dwarfed by the 5-foot-7 Morgan. In six great seasons from 1972 through 1977, he averaged 22 homers, 83 RBI, 60 steals, a .433 on base percentage and a .497 slugging average. Largely in recognition of those six years, today Morgan is a Hall of Famer. He won the National League MVP award in 1976 and 1977, becoming the only second baseman to ever win the award back-to-back and the first in either league to win it since the Chicago White Sox' Nellie Fox in 1959.

"He could have been (MVP) a couple other years," said Sparky Anderson, the Reds manager during the Big Red Machine era. "When he lost to (Johnny) Bench (in 1972) and to (Pete) Rose (in 1973), he had MVP-quality seasons those years."



Few remember that Morgan first came up with the Astros in 1963, at the age of 19. During his subsequent developmental seasons, he played on the only Astro Turf field in baseball. Recognizing this could give the Reds a huge boost on the riverfront, Howsam made it a priority to acquire him.

"It started as a one-for-one trade," said Howsam. "Morgan had speed and all the ability to be a top player. We were going to give them Lee May, because Houston wanted his power, but they also said they wanted a second baseman if they were going to give up Morgan. If we were going to give up Helms, our second baseman, we wanted some pitching and help for our defense. It all grew from there."

By contrast, Quinn had to piece together a series of trades this past winter. First he sent pitchers Jack Armstrong, Scott Scudder and Joe Turek to Cleveland for pitcher Greg Swindell. Next, outfielder Eric Davis and pitcher Kip Gross were off to Los Angeles for pitchers Tim Belcher and John Wetteland. At the winter meetings, Quinn moved reliever Randy Myers to San Diego for outfielders Bip Roberts and Craig Pueschner. Finally, Quinn traded Wetteland and pitcher Bill Risley to Montreal for outfielder Dave Martinez, pitcher Scott Ruskin and infielder Willie Greene. The Reds General Manager could never have pulled it off without taking the small trade approach.

"The day of the eight-player trade has gone by the boards just because of salary considerations being what they are," said Quinn. "These two-for-threes and three-for-twos, you can still make those kinds of deals. But I don't see the big deals getting done unless you get a lot of kids involved."

Roberts is no Morgan, but he batted .333 on artificial turf over the last three seasons, including .401 in 1990. Martinez, like Geronimo, is highly regarded for his abilities in the outfield. In the four years following the Houston trade, Billingham went 65-43 for the Reds, which would not be impossible for Belcher or Swindell.

One other parallel between the trades of 1972 and 1992 is worth noting. In 1970, the Reds went to the World Series, sunk to 79-83 in their repeat year and reacted with the big trade. From that point, they consolidated into a dynasty. In 1990, the Reds won the World Series, sunk to 74-88 in the following year and reacted with their big series of trades.

The 1992 Cincinnati Reds hope to complete the equation.

IBM Tale of the Tape

The IBM Tale of the Tape is a home run distance program conducted throughout the season adding excitement and interest in this (unofficial) baseball statistic that was introduced at Riverfront in 1989. When a Reds player hits a home run, the estimated distance the ball traveled will be displayed on the scoreboard. Throughout the year, fans will be informed of the Reds' three longest homers at Riverfront this season. This program will culminate with the presentation of a check by the Reds and IBM to the 1992 recipient — the Resource Center Services of Alzheimers.

IBM Student Pennant Race

The Student Pennant Race is one of several community service programs funded and orchestrated in association with IBM's sponsorship of Major League Baseball. Once a year, IBM takes 1,000 seventh-graders in every major league city to a ball game — 26,000 students in all; along with one adult guest per student. On Wednesday, May 6th, the Cincinnati Reds and IBM will celebrate the 6th anniversary of the Student Pennant Race here in Cincinnati. Teachers and counselors in 19 Cincinnati Public Junior High Schools select deserving students based on conduct, attendance, attitude, effort, school/community service and scholastic improvement. The students are transported to the University of Cincinnati Shoemaker Center for a pre-game "pep-rally/picnic" which includes food, entertainment and student recognition. Congratulatory speeches are delivered from Marge Schott, Cincinnati Mayor Dwight Tillery, the Superintendent of Cincinnati Public Schools and executive representatives from the University of Cincinnati and IBM. All students are given a packet of mementos which includes: autographed player photos, a Student Pennant Race painter cap, a bookbag and a game scorecard and pencil.

Reds Broadcasting

Marty Brennaman and Joe Nuxhall return for their 19th season together on the Reds Radio Network, while Steve LaMar is joined by former Red Gordy Coleman on the Reds Television Network.

Brennaman, who also calls play-by-play for the Reds TV Network, has been named Sportscaster of the Year in Ohio nine times after earning that honor four times in Virginia, will also call five innings on the Reds Television Network. Nuxhall, a former Cincinnati pitcher and a member of the Reds Hall of Fame, is in his 26th year as a Reds announcer. On Reds TV Network broadcasts, veteran sportscaster LaMar handles four innings of play-by-play and also works five innings on Reds Radio. Coleman, a Reds Hall of Famer, provides analysis on the Reds TV Network and works with LaMar on Reds' cable TV games on SportsChannel Cincinnati.

The Reds Radio Network is one of the largest in professional sports, with affiliates in seven states. The flagship station is WLW (700 AM) in Cincinnati. All regular season games are aired on WLW and the Reds Radio Network. WLWT-TV (Channel 5 in Cincinnati) is the flagship station for the Reds TV Network, which has 25 affiliates in the Midwest.

Knowing your limit is a legal imperative backed by laws with plenty of clout. Enough clout to keep irresponsible drinkers off the road. For many people, the borderline between acceptable blood alcohol content and Driving While Impaired is crossed with that last drink.

For others, even the first drink is too many. Know your limit. Ignorance can be costly.

Alcohol Policy

The consumption of alcoholic beverages on Riverfront Stadium property (including inside motor vehicles) directly before, during and after Reds games is prohibited by law, unless it is purchased from Sportservice and consumed within the stadium. Removal of alcoholic beverages from inside the stadium is prohibited. Please don't drink and drive.

Autographs

Fans may seek players' autographs from the Blue Level seating area along the railing near the dugouts and field from the time the gates open until the end of batting practice. Fans with tickets from the Green, Yellow or Red Levels may "exchange" their tickets at the Green Level Customer Service Desk for an autograph pass. At the completion of batting practice, fans should turn in their autograph passes at the Green Level Customer Service Desk and have their tickets returned to them. (On certain special occasions, this practice will be suspended.) Players are not available for autographs after batting practice or between games of doubleheaders.

Banners

Banners and signs are welcome at Riverfront. They must be in good taste and they may not be hung or displayed on any part of the playing field or in any way that obstructs the view of anyone in the stands. An ideal location is the facade of the Green or Red seats, which can accommodate a four-foot deep banner. Banners cannot interfere with the sightline of the batter (the gray background behind the center field wall), the pitcher or umpire looking down the foul line. Reds management reserves the right to remove any banner or sign that is viewed to be in bad taste, that is non-baseball related, or is obstructive.

Cameras

Fans are encouraged to take photos of their favorite Reds at Riverfront. Tripods, monopods, standing in the aisles or otherwise obstructing the view of others is not permitted.

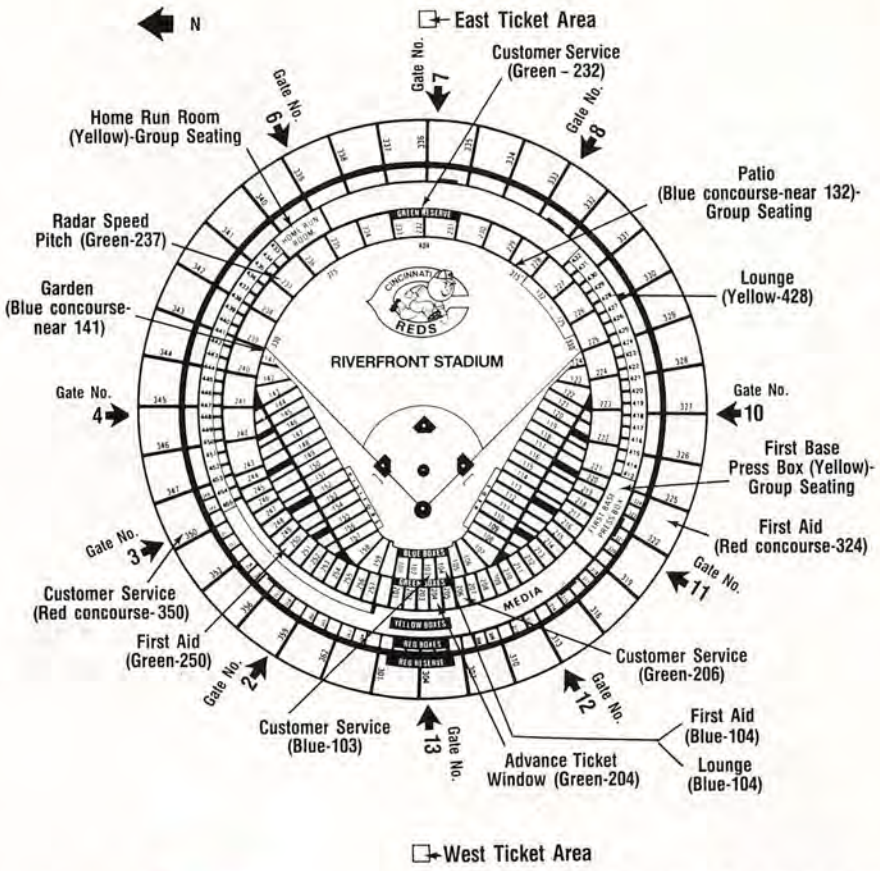
Carry-In Items

No cans, bottles or alcoholic beverages are permitted to be brought in to the stadium. Plastic or thermos containers are permitted in the stadium, providing they can fit comfortably under a seat. To ensure the safety of fans, players and employees, carry-in items are subject to inspection.

Customer Service Desks

If you have a question or a problem that your Usher can't help you with, please stop by one of the Customer Service Desks—on the Blue Level behind aisle 103, on the Green Level behind aisles 206 and 232 and on the Red Level behind aisle 350.

Guide to Seating and Special Areas (by aisle number)



Elevators

The stadium elevators are not for use by the general public with the exception of handicapped, disabled or elderly guests.

Emergency Phone Calls

Doctors and others expecting emergency phone calls should leave their seat locations at the Customer Service Desk on the Green Level behind aisle 206. Paging is not permitted.

Evacuation

It is very unlikely that fans will need to evacuate the stadium. However, if the need arises, please exit the seating area immediately upon request and proceed calmly and in an orderly manner to the nearest stadium gate or follow the directions of Reds personnel. Reds management strongly suggests that you familiarize yourself with the locations of stadium exits. If you have any questions or are in need of directions, please see your Reds Usher or visit any of the Customer Service Desks.

First Aid Rooms

Three first aid rooms are in the stadium—on the Blue Level behind aisle 104, on the Green behind aisle 250 and the Red behind aisle 324. If you are unable to go to a first aid room, please inform any Reds employee, who will have the medical staff respond to your location. (In emergencies only)

Gates Open

Riverfront Stadium gates open 90 minutes before game time.

Ground Rules

Anyone who ventures onto the playing field or into a restricted area, throws objects or interferes with a ball in play will be prosecuted.

Hardee's Speed Pitch

Fans can test their throwing arms at the Hardee's Speed Pitch booth, located behind aisle 237 on the Green Level. Fans get three throws and receive a coupon from Hardee's. The Speed Pitch is the same equipment used by Reds scouts and by the TV networks. It is open before and during games.

Lost and Found

If you've lost something, or found something somebody lost, please go to a Customer Service Desk.

Parking

There is plenty of parking at and near the stadium. Three levels of the parking garage can accommodate 3,180 cars, while the Plaza Level has additional spaces for 100 buses and vans. Another 1,819 cars can be parked on surface lots to the east and west of Riverfront. Within a 12-block radius of the stadium, there are enough facilities to handle about 20,000 cars. There are 38 parking spaces on the plaza for handicapped persons. Rates for games are $5.00 in the garage and $3.50 on the surface lots. Parking for buses, campers and vans on the Plaza Level costs $15.00 per vehicle.

Pass Out Checks/Exiting the Stadium

Once you have exited the stadium, you will not be permitted to re-enter without another ticket. Pass out checks are only issued in emergency situations. If it becomes necessary for you to leave the stadium, please visit any of the Customer Service Desks.

Plaza Parking

While purchasing tickets in advance, fans may park free on the Plaza until two hours before game time. The bus/taxi ramp leading to the Plaza is accessible from Main and Sycamore Streets (between Third and Fourth Streets) in downtown Cincinnati.

Rain Checks

If a game is postponed due to rain before it is officially completed, the Reds will exchange rain checks for tickets to a future regular season home game this season, subject to availability. Rain checks may be exchanged at Riverfront Stadium, the Gift Shop at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in downtown Cincinnati or by mail. See the back of the ticket for more information. If a game is postponed, fans will be promptly notified via the stadium public address system and scoreboard.

Safety

Please do not lean over any stadium railing, guide wire or stand on any stadium seat. Failure to observe this rule could result in serious injury to you or another person.

Scoreboard/Video Board

Riverfront Stadium, already home of one of the largest scoreboards in the country, added a 32' x 24' Sony JumboTRON color video replay board during the 1987 season as part of a 5.2 million dollar reconstruction of the entire scoreboard system. A production crew, ranging from nine to 11 members, operates the video board and scoreboard system from a control room that rivals that of a TV studio.

Taxi Service

Taxi service after Reds games is available on the west side of the Plaza. If you need assistance, please go to a Customer Service Desk. Please don't drink and drive!

Tickets

Information on Reds tickets may be found on page 87 of the Reds Yearbook/Program and at the Stadium's Advance Ticket Window on the Green Level behind the plate.

Unauthorized Sales

Unauthorized individuals selling or soliciting tickets or merchandise on the stadium plaza or inside the stadium are subject to arrest and removal from the premises.

Wheel Chair Locations

Wheel chair locations are available on the Green Level and Blue Level Please consult the Reds Ticket Office for details.

Hall of Fame Quiz

Answers on page 112.

☆ A. "He didn't look like a shortstop, you know. He had those huge shoulders and those bowed legs, and he didn't seem to field balls the way we did. He just ate the ball up with his big hands, like a scoop shovel, and when he threw it to first base you'd see pebbles and dirt and everything else flying over there along with the ball. It was quite a sight! The greatest shortstop ever. The greatest everything ever."

☆ B. "You wind him up in the spring, turn him loose, he hits .330 or .340, and you shut him off at the end of the season."

☆ C. "He'd knock you down just for having bad breath."

☆ D. "All I want out of life is that when I walk down the street folks will say, 'There goes the greatest hitter who ever lived.'"

☆ E. "He was the greatest second baseman I ever saw and one of the best ballplayers. He could hit, he could run, throw, field, and he had it upstairs too. Smartest baseball man I ever met."

☆ F. "A surge of joy flooded over me that I shall never forget. I felt like shouting out that I had made a ball curve. I wanted to tell everybody; it was too good to keep to myself."

☆ G. "He was so fast he could get out of bed, turn out the light across the room, and be back in bed under the covers before the lights went out."

☆ H. "To us, he was the New York Yankees. You had to see him day after day, year after year, and watch him play on days when his knees hurt so badly that he could barely walk to fully appreciate his greatness as a player."

☆ I. "He was the most exuberant and exciting player of his generation, one of the most extraordinarily gifted ballplayers ever to step on a diamond. He could do everything and he could do it better than anyone else with a joyous grace."

How to Score

Number Players As Follows:
1—Pitcher; 2—Catcher; 3—First Baseman; 4—Second Baseman; 5—Third Baseman; 6—Shortstop; 7—Left Fielder; 8—Center Fielder; 9—Right Fielder.

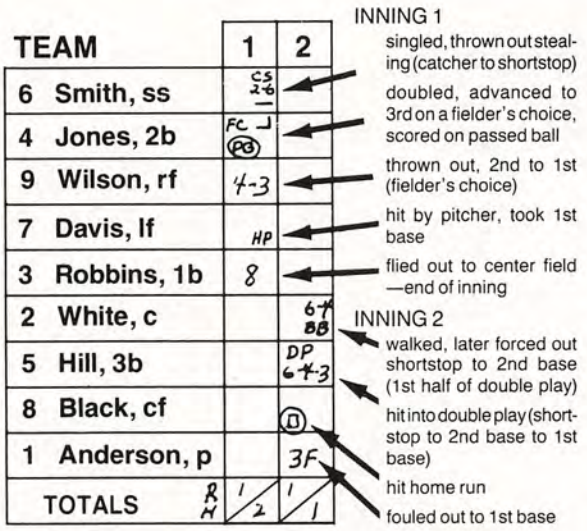
Every time a batter goes to the plate, use the numbers to indicate how he was retired or how he reached base.

Fielding plays retiring batters or runners also call for use of the numbers. For instance, the batter who grounds out to the shortstop is retired 6-3 in your scoring. If he flies to the right fielder, merely use the figure 9. If it is foul: 9F.

The lower left hand corner of the scoring block should be considered as home plate. Progress is counter-clockwise with progress to first base indicated in lower right hand corner, to second in upper right hand corner, to third in upper left hand corner, and to home in lower left.

Symbols For Plays

—	Single	PB	Passed Ball
⌟	Double	BK	Balk
⌟⌟	Triple	K	Struck Out
□	Home Run	BB	Base on Balls
E	Reached base on an error	FO	Force Out
FC	Fielder's Choice	SF	Sacrifice Fly
HP	Hit by Pitch	DP	Double Play
WP	Wild Pitch	F	Foul Fly
SB	Stolen Base	IW	Intentional Walk
CS	Caught Stealing	L	Line Drive
SH	Sacrifice Hit	B	Bunt



In example to left, batter reached first on an error by the second baseman, stole second, went to third on a wild pitch and scored on a passed ball. It is convenient to encircle all runs as shown so that scoring plays may be seen at a glance.

Tim Costo, Infielder
Ht: 6-5 Wt: 220
Born: 2-16-69
Bats: Right Throws: Right

Tim was acquired last season from Cleveland in exchange for Reggie Jefferson on June 14. Though he hit only six home runs in 1991, Tim showed flashes of incredible power. The most memorable example came July 3, 1991 in Chattanooga, when he crushed a homer that went an estimated 450 feet. Costo played his college baseball at the University of Iowa, where he majored in finance. He is Iowa's all time home run leader (41). In 1990, he was selected first-team All-America shortstop by the American Baseball Coaches Association, Baseball America and The Sporting News. Tim was the Cleveland Indians' No. 1 draft choice in June, 1990. Timothy Roger Costo is single and lives in Glen Ellyn, IL.

Trevor Hoffman, Pitcher
Ht: 6-1 Wt: 200
Born: 10-13-67
Bats: Right Throws: Right

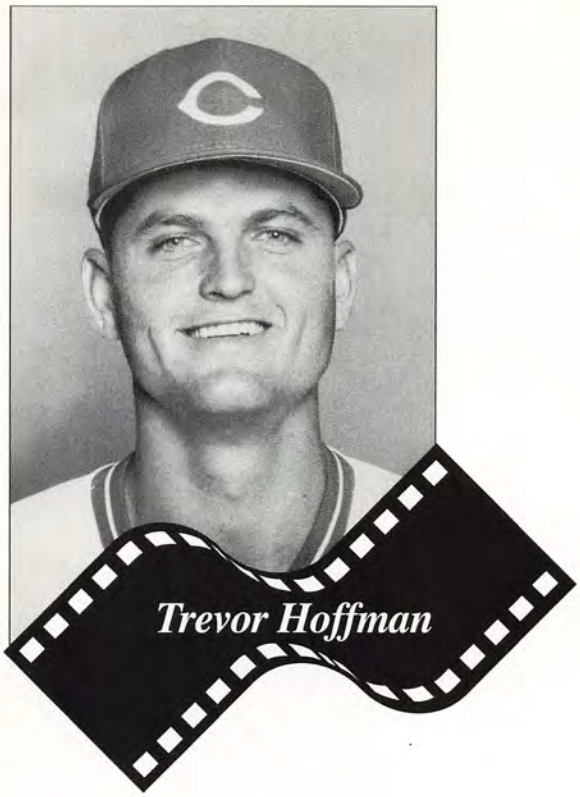
Trevor was an infielder in his first two pro seasons, before switching to pitching for the 1991 season. He broke in as a shortstop with Billings in the rookie Pioneer League in 1989, hitting .249. After batting .212 as a shortstop and third baseman for Class A Charleston (WV) in 1990, he moved to the mound as a relief pitcher in 1991 with outstanding results. Trevor began the '91 season with Class A Cedar Rapids and was 1-1 with a 1.87 ERA and 12 saves in 27 appearances. The smoke-throwing right-hander ranked 2nd among Midwest League pitchers with 13.9 strikeouts per 9 innings (52 SO in 33.2 IP). Trevor William Hoffman is single and lives in Anaheim, CA. His brother, Glenn, was a major league infielder with the Red Sox, Dodgers and Angels.

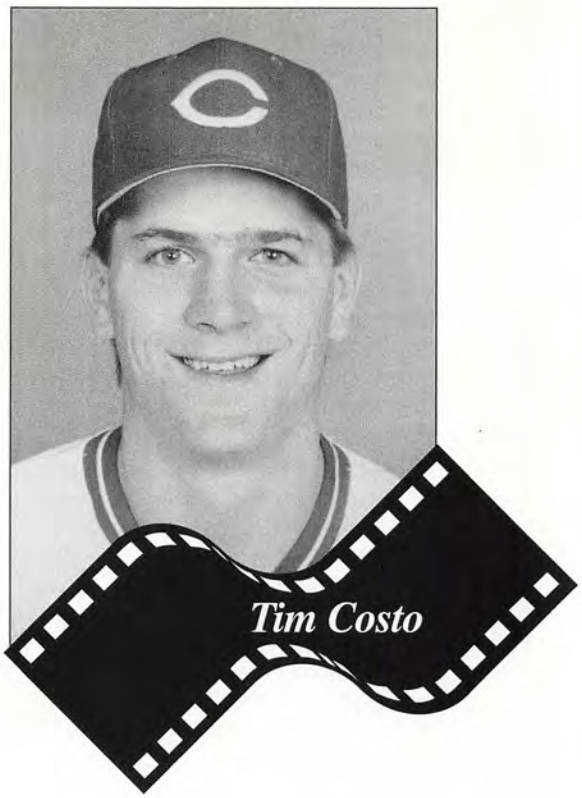
Dan Wilson, Catcher
Ht: 6-3 Wt: 190
Born: 3-25-69
Bats: Right Throws: Right

Even though he had only a half-season of Double-A experience, Dan Wilson made an excellent showing at spring training. Defensively, he throws out a high percentage of runners because he has quick feet, a quick release and exceptional accuracy. Dan started the 1991 season at Charleston (WV) and hit .315 while throwing out 44% of runners trying to steal. He was named by South Atlantic League Managers as the league's best defensive catcher. In 1990, Dan earned first team All-America honors from Baseball America as a catcher at the University of Minnesota, where he majored in mechanical engineering. Daniel Allen Wilson and his wife Anne live in Barrington, IL. He was the Reds' No. 1 draft choice in June, 1990.

Reggie Sanders, Center Fielder
Ht: 6-1 Wt: 180
Born: 12-1-67
Bats: Right Throws: Right

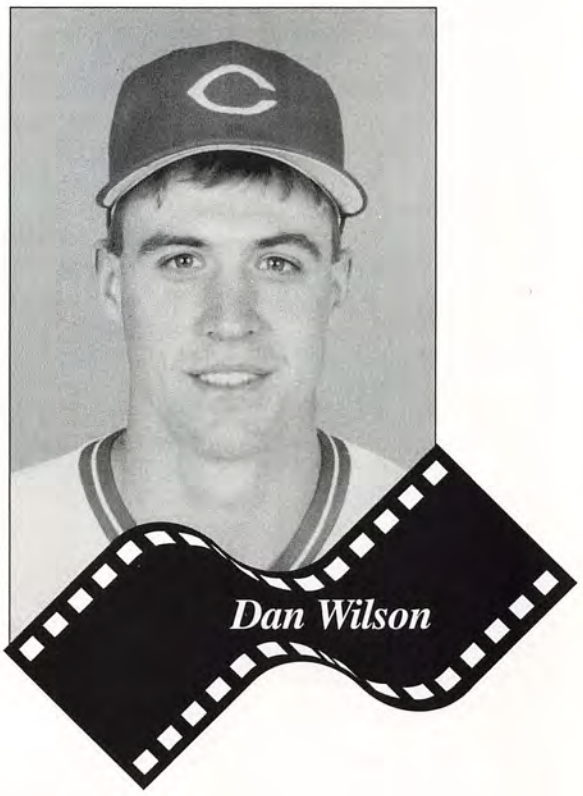
Reggie spent most of the 1991 season at Double-A Chattanooga, before earning a late season callup to the Reds. In his first year at the Double-A level, Reggie hit .315 with 8 homers, 49 RBI and stole 15 bases for Chattanooga. He was named to the league's post-season All-Star team; to Baseball America's All-Star team for all Double-A leagues; and was named the second-best major league prospect in the Southern League. Sanders was a shortstop in his first two pro seasons, but in 1990 moved to center field and had a banner year for Cedar Rapids, earning Midwest League MVP honors. Reginald Laverne Sanders is single and lives in Florence, SC. He was drafted by the Reds in June, 1987 (7th round), but did not sign until shortly before the 1988 draft.





Calvin Reese, Shortstop
Ht: 5-11 Wt: 160
Born: 6-10-73, Columbia, SC
Bats: Right Throws: Right

The Reds' No. 1 draft choice in June, 1991, Calvin began his professional career at Princeton (WV) last summer. The Reds used their first round pick on Calvin believing that one day he'll develop into a player who can dominate a game both offensively and defensively. Reese has excellent range going to his left or right, body control and balance. He has an above average arm with an extremely quick release. Calvin Reese is single and lives in Columbia, SC.



John Roper, Pitcher
Ht: 6-0 Wt: 170
Born: 11-21-71, Moore County, NC
Bats: Right Throws: Right

Since signing with the Reds two years ago, John Roper has put together statistics more dominating than any high school pick from the 1990 draft: 21-11, 1.90 with 265 strikeouts in 261 innings. John has a fastball that peaks in the low 90's and a knuckle curve that only few can touch. John Christopher Roper is single and lives in Raeford, NC. He was the Reds No. 12 draft choice in June, 1990.

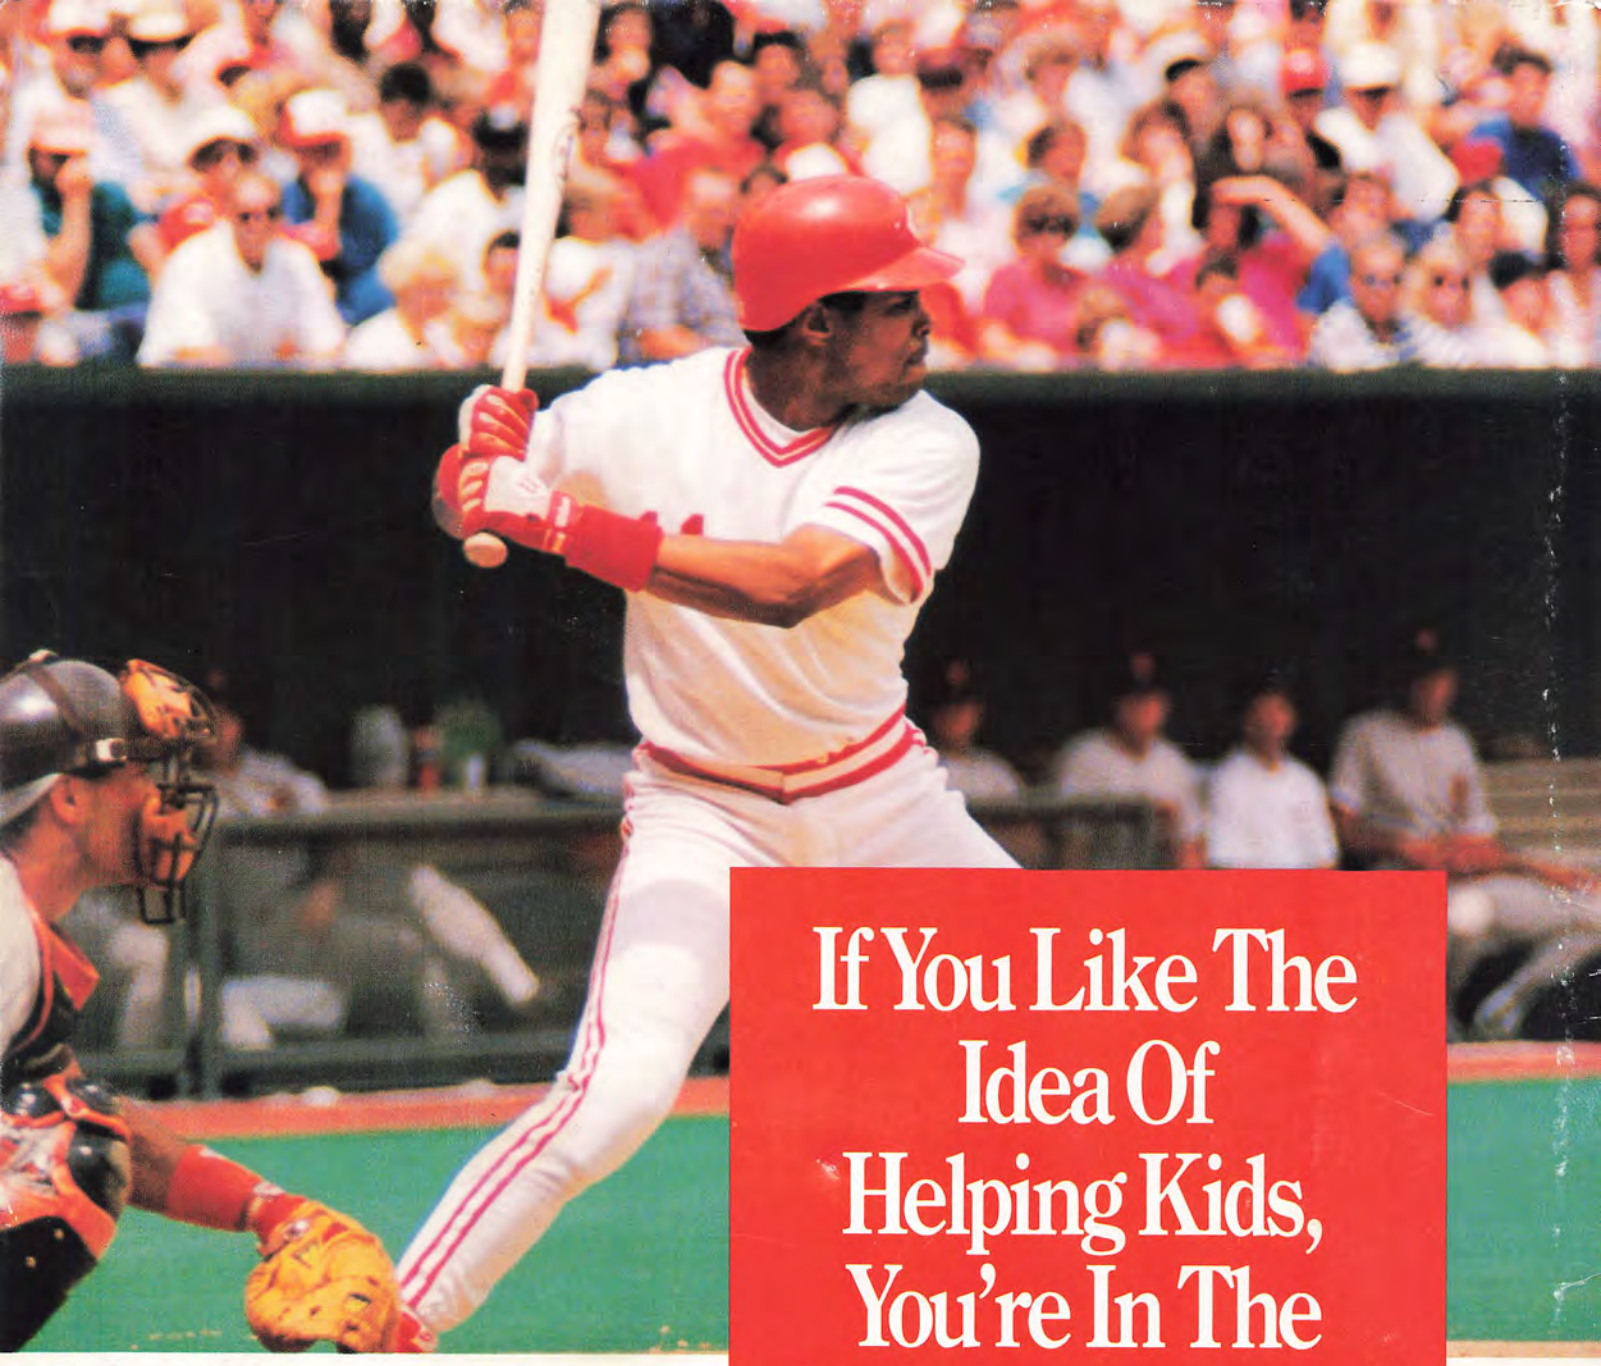
IN 1948 WLWT BROADCAST THE FIRST CINCINNATI REDS GAME ON TELEVISION.

NEARLY 2000 REDS GAMES LATER...

...THE TRADITION CONTINUES.

WLWT 5

CINCINNATI'S FIRST FOR SPORTS.



If You Like The Idea Of Helping Kids, You're In The Right Ball Park.

In this ball park, Barry Larkin will be helping kids by doing what he does best. Hit baseballs.

You see, every time Barry gets a hit, Cellular One and Crest will make a donation to the Caring Program for Children, and Community Mutual Blue Cross & Blue Shield will match each contribution dollar for dollar.

That means whenever Barry gets a single, two more needy Ohio children will be eligible to receive routine health care benefits for an entire year. A double will help four kids. A triple, six. And a home run, ten.

Over the past two years, Barry was able to raise $266,000 and help nearly 1,200 children. Which, in our opinion, doesn't just put Barry in the right ball park, it puts him in a league all his own.
